About Me

I am a backend heavy full-stack developer with proficiency in various programming languages, such as PHP,JavaScript and Python, as well their related frameworks and libraries like Express.js,Laravel etc. Currently, I am working as a JavaScript backend developer, where I utilize my Node.js skills to develop robust and scalable web applications.

While I primarily focus on web app development, I am passionate about exploring emerging technologies. Presently, I am expanding my knowledge base in Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Data Science, and I am enrolled in an Artificial Intelligence Diploma course at PIAIC. I am particularly interested in Computer Vision and aspire to contribute to the industry in the future.

Furthermore, I am excited about the transformative potential of the metaverse and Web3, actively learning about these technologies and their potential applications at PIAIC.
